Context

The dashboard shows strong overall sales. The next step is to understand when sales peak, where they come from, and which customer groups contribute most.

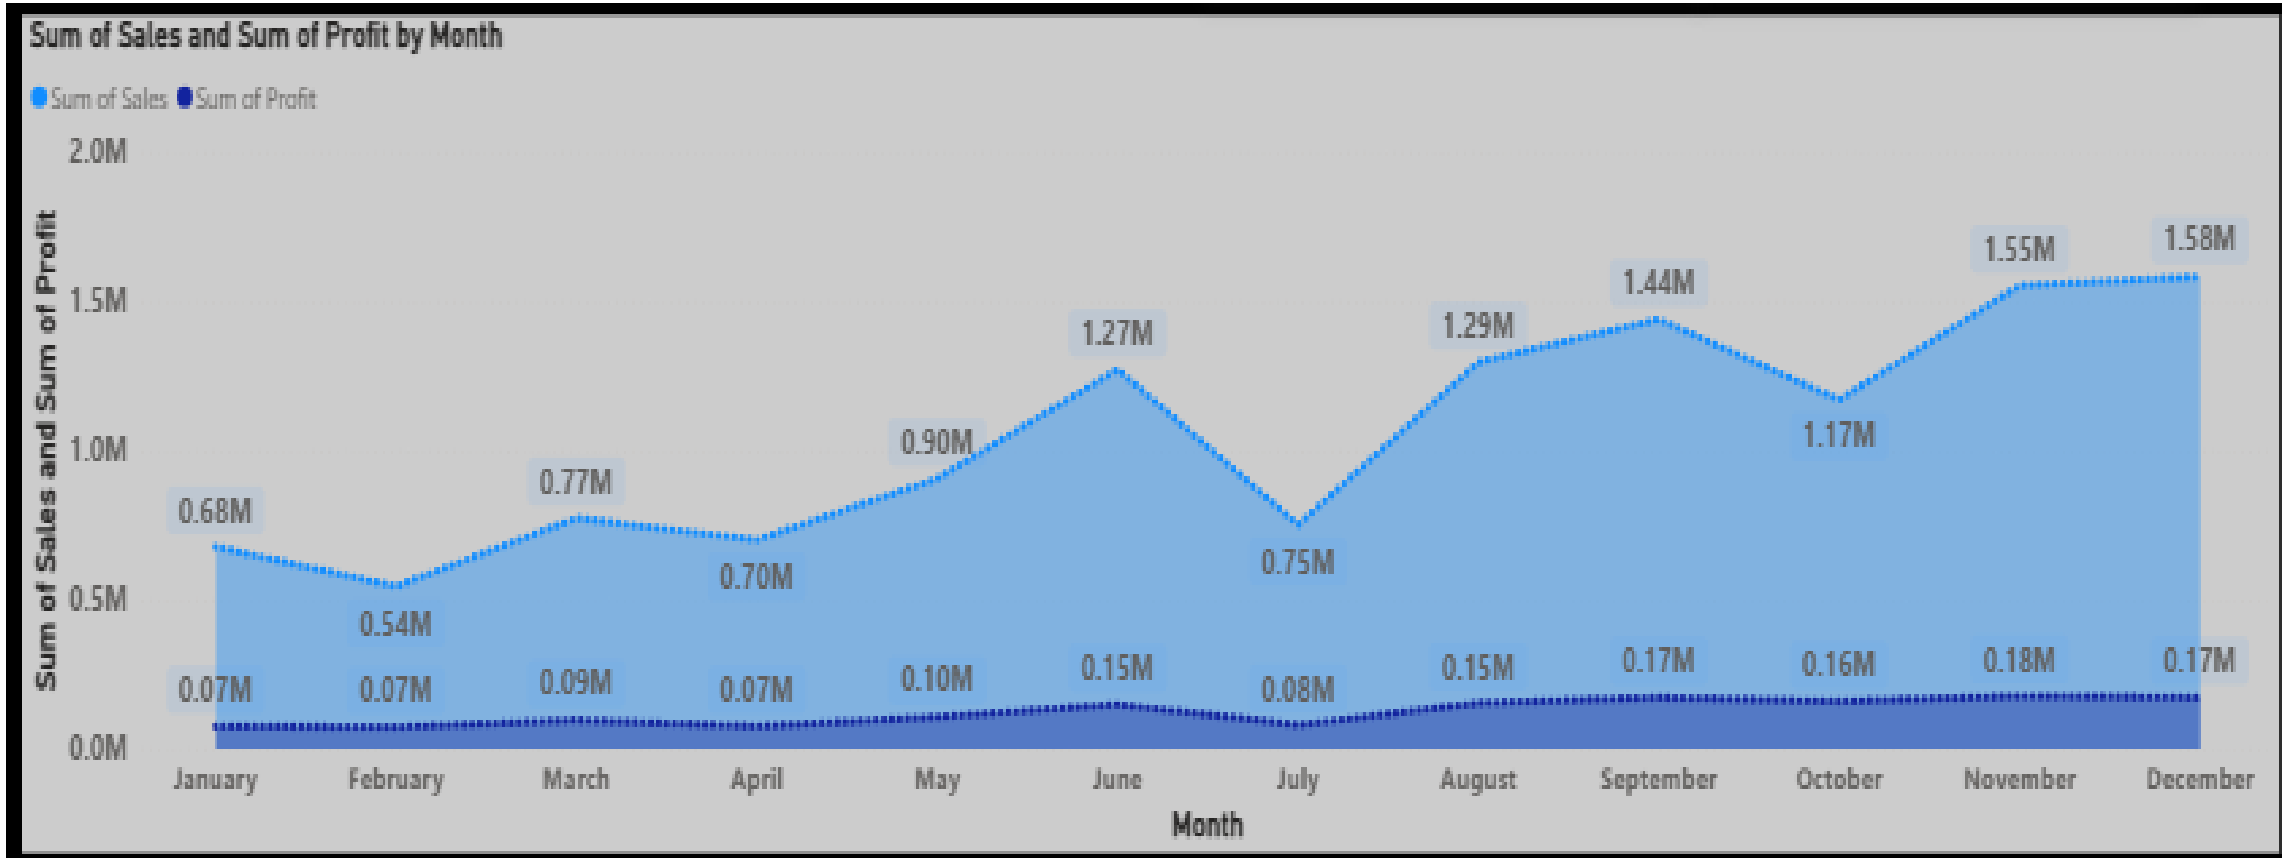

Story structure

Trend → Region → Customer Segment → Profitability → Recommendation

KEY TAKEAWAY • Overall sales are strong, creating a clear baseline for deeper performance analysis.

1. When are sales strongest?

Monthly sales trend from the Global Superstore dataset

KEY TAKEAWAY • Sales rise and fall across the year, with November and December among the strongest months.

2. Where are sales coming from?

Regional performance highlights geographic differences

KEY TAKEAWAY • Regional performance varies substantially, so high-performing regions offer the clearest opportunities for growth.

3. Which customer segment drives sales?

Sales contribution by customer segment

Consumer: 6.5M

Corporate: 3.8M

Home Office: 2.3M

KEY TAKEAWAY • Consumer is the largest sales segment, contributing about 6.5M in sales.

4. Are high sales translating into profit?

Revenue should be evaluated together with profitability

Why it matters

A region can generate substantial sales without delivering the same level of profi

What to compare

Look for regions where sales are high but profit is comparatively weak.

Decision focus

Prioritize profitable growth rather than sales volume alone.

KEY TAKEAWAY • Sales and profit should be analyzed together before deciding where to invest or improve.

5. Business Recommendation

Turning the visual evidence into an action-oriented conclusion

1

Use peak months for planning

Prepare inventory, campaigns and resources around stronger sales periods.

2

Prioritize high-performing regions

Protect strong regional performance and investigate expansion opportunities.

3

Keep Consumer as a key focus

The Consumer segment is the largest contributor to sales.

4

Manage for profitable growth

Track profit alongside sales to avoid chasing revenue that adds limited value.

FINAL MESSAGE • Strong sales are the starting point; the goal is to understand the drivers and turn them into profitable action.

Submission Checklist

Use this slide only as a personal checklist; remove it if your portal requires exactly 4–6 story slides.

✓
Keep the 5 story slides focused on one central question.

✓
Each visual has a one-sentence takeaway.

✓
Avoid unrelated charts such as Gender, Age Category, Weekend/Weekday and Order Delay.

✓
Export the final PowerPoint as PDF if the internship portal asks for PDF.

✓
Upload the PPTX/PDF and your Power BI source file to GitHub if permitted.
